message

It is with profound joy that I extend fondest personal greetings to the people of Baler as they commemorate the 100th birth anniversary of the late President Manuel L. Quezon.

We honor Quezon for his dynamic leadership and radical nationalism by which he endowed our people with an unshakable faith in themselves. As a statesman, he led our peaceful struggle for national independence and self-determination. As a citizen, he was a model of genuine patriotism and a source of inspiration for our countrymen. Indeed, it is impossible to depict the entire scheme of our political life and destiny without giving mention to the efforts and achievements of Quezon.

It is in this spirit that I enjoin the people of Baler to celebrate this occasion. Inspired by the memory of their most illustrious townsman, I trust that they will consider this event as an opportunity to reinforce their solidarity and to inject fresh vigor to their programs for the growth and progress of their community.

My wishes for a solemn and fruitful celebration.

It gives me great pleasure to felicitate the good people of Baler, Quezon, on the occasion of the Centennial Birth Anniversary of the late President Manuel Luis Quezon, an illustrious son of the province and one of the greatest Presidents the country ever had. There can be no more fitting Presidents that a grateful people can offer on the observance of his 100 years birth anniversary than their continuing re-commitment and re-dedication to the ideals and principles that the late President Manuel Luis Quezon had given the best years of his life to make our country claim its rightful place under the sun.

Congratulations and more power to Baler!

KALATAS

Isang taos pusong pagbati ang ipinaaabot ng aking maybahay at ako sa mga panauhin at mga kababayan sa nalalapit na pistang bayan ng Baler at ng Santong Patron, San Luis de Obispo. At lalong higit sa lahat ay ang Sang-Daang Taon Anibersaryo ng kapanganakan ng isa sa pinakadakilang Pilipino, tinaguriang Ama ng Kalayaan ng Pilipinas at ng Katarungang Panlipunan – Pangulo Manuel Luis Quezon.

Ang Agosto 19 taon-taon, kaarawan ng nasabing yumaong Pangulo ng ating bansa, sa atin pag-gunita at pag-ala-ala sa kanya ang mahalaga nating ginagawa o dapat gawin ay hindi ang tayo'y maghanda lamang at maging masaya, at kung may palatuntunan sa ganitong pagkakataon ay ang bigkasin natin ang magagandang mga kataga upang siya'y purihin. Ako ay naniniwala at nananalig ang naaangkop na gawin ng sino pa man, nasa loob at nasa labas ng pamahalaan, ay ang subaybayan, katigan at panaligan yaong mga dakila at matatayog na adhikain at layunin ng yumaong Pangulo Manuel L. Quezon, alalaon bagay ang ating kilusin at gawain ay iugnay natin sa layunin na ang bawa't isang mamamayang Pilipino ay magkaroon ng pantay-pantay na karapatan at pagkakataon tungo sa kanyang ikauunlad at ikaliligaya. Hindi kaila sa kaalaman ng marami na ang hacienda ng mga Quezon sa Arayat, Pampanga, ang isa sa pinakauna, kung hindi man ito ang kauna-unahan, na hinati-hati at naipamigay sa murang halaga sa mga taong doo'y naninirahan. Patunay na ang kanyang paninindigan sa simulaing Katarungang Panglipunan ay isang paninindigang kanyang binigyan ng laman, buto at buhay at hindi sa salita lamang.

Kaya tayong ngayo'y mga nabubuhay pa, upang ang ginawang pagmamalasakit ng yumaong Pangulo alang-alang sa kalayaan ng ating bansa, ikauunlad at ikaliligaya ng bawa't isang Pilipino ay huwag maging bigo, sa bawa't sandali ng ating buhay ay huwag nating kalimutan ang kanyang ginawa at gumawa tayo, sa abot ng ating makakaya, tungo sa ipagsasakatuparan ng kanyang ginintuang layunin.

Sa kanyang Sang-Daang Taon ngayong Agosto 19, 1978, at Pistang Bayan ng Baler, "Maligayang Pagdiriwang sa lahat".

The involvement and the enthusiastic response of practically all sectoral groups of the community, from the start of the preparation and up to the culmination of the MLQ Centennial celebration on August 19 this year, is by itself an expression of the love and devotion to the memory of the foremost son of Baler – the late President Manuel Luis Quezon. I find no words to express and convey my profound gratitude to all of them.

Indeed, there is a solemn duty for all of us to get involved in this Centennial celebration of Manuel L. Quezon; the 100th year anniversary of his birth. The government programs of the New Society under the dynamic leadership of President Ferdinand E. Marcos have a close parallelism if not with identical similarities with the basic social and political philosophy of the late President Quezon. Under both leadership our country attained self-determination and gained national identity and highest respect as a people and nation. The MLQ Centennial this year manifests Filipino unity and the emulation of the ideals of the late President Manuel L. Quezon towards the establishment of a strong and truly Filipino Society.

Reminiscence, indeed, can be a most delightful adventure. And for us who are now fondly looking back during this centennial celebration of the birth of that champion of social justice and father of Philippine independence, our own Manuel L. Quezon, it is a great emotional experience. The historical picture is vivid enough. We can see how he finally led our people in breaking away from the bondage of empire, from the indignity of foreign domination. Because of him and other leaders like him, we are today enjoying that wonderful sense of oneness as a people.

On this centennial celebration, our hearts are swelling with pride. We are honoring a great man, one from our very own. We feel we can flaunt about with vicarious feelings of success and glory. So let it be . . . but, certainly, we are also honoring this Star of Baler because we owe him a debt of gratitude! Through the political independence movement which he spearheaded, he finally gave the Filipino people a common identity! And, in addition, he gave notice to the world that we were going to solve our problems in our own way.

As we look back, let us give President Manuel L. Quezon the honor he deserves by giving meaning to the noble causes he staunchly stood for — not just by way of grandiose lip service here and now during anniversaries, but by actually contributing ourselves heretofore towards the alleviation of the social problems of our countrymen. Let not any one of us be entitled to moralize about poverty, for instance, unless he contributes towards the actual easement of that poverty — not by alms or by charity alone, but by a deep involvement in the solution of the social problem itself. Indeed, what is required for all of us is to prove our good intentions, to come out with deeds and not merely with empty extravagant professions!

Major General (Retired)

To the Filipino nation, Manuel L. Quezon shall forever be remembered as a true statesman. A man of selfless dedication to duty. A man who had the courage to uphold the primary interest of the country above and beyond diversified and conflicting partisan interests, to the extent of sacrificing his own life. His famous words, "my loyalty to my party ends where my loyalty to my country begins," is a hallmark of the man's firm devotion to his country.

To us, citizens of Baler, Manuel L. Quezon is a model to emulate. He has shown the country that the people of Baler can produce a national leader who can rise up to the demands of the times. He exemplifies what a worthy citizen of Baler should be, and could accomplish. He handed down to us, sons and daughters of Baler, the responsibility of being born to leadership . . . of being able to overcome the seemingly insurmountable demands of progress and prosperity for our town and our people.

The past one hundred years of Manuel L. Quezon provokes in us a number of questions.

Are we ready and willing to assume the burden of leadership . . . of working for the good, not only of ourselves but also to our town and our people? Have there been significant contributions from all of us in creating a healthy community for Baler? Have we responded to the call to national greatness that our Government has been trying to instill in our hearts and minds?

Perhaps, it is fitting that we now re-examine our role in this community in the light of the ideas and standards that Manuel L. Quezon had drawn. Let us work for a better town of Baler. Let us unite in a common goal of helping our less fortunate citizens so that they, too, may reap the blessings of a just, progressive and honorable society that we know Manuel L. Quezon would have strived for had he been with us in this generation.

I take this opportunity to extend my warmest greetings to my beloved townmates on the occasion of the centennial birthday anniversary of Baler's hero, and certainly of our country, Manuel L. Quezon.

To the people of the Subprovince of Aurora, the 1978 MANUEL LUIS QUEZON Centennial Celebration is doubly significant. Our people should take pride that Quezon was born in this almost forgotten shores of Aurora. For as long as the legend of this great statesman lives on, it will always be remembered that Aurora Subprovince has made its share in nation-building.

Baler, the birth place of our distinguished "Kababayan," cannot take solely the pride and honor for this great event – his Centennial Birth Anniversary, and must share it with the other municipalities of Aurora Subprovince. The municipality of Maria Aurora during the lifetime of President Quezon was a part of Baler, and then called barrio San Jose. Whenever President Quezon visited Baler, the Ilongots from barrio San Jose came to Baler to welcome him. The Ilongots rendered tribal dances and cultural presentations to the amazement and excitement of the late President Quezon and Party. This simple reminiscence shows that the municipality of Maria Aurora had already a special place and admiration in the heart of Quezon and his family. It is with this context that sometime in 1949, this barrio, endowed with its rich agricultural potentials, was made into a regular municipality and named after the Quezon eldest daughter – Maria Aurora.

On this occasion, and in behalf of my family and townmates permit me to extend my congratulations for a happy celebration.

I am extending my sincerest congratulations to our guests, concerned citizens, officers and members of the Quezon Centennial Celebration who, in one way or another, have made this affair possible.

The occasion of the town fiesta of Baler, in honor of your Patron Saint, San Luis which coincides with the birthday of our beloved President Manuel Luis Quezon is a momentous event in our history.

May all the blessings of peace and prosperity, coupled with the spirit of happiness be with you always. May this occasion also serve as a foundation of unity among the masses in attaining the goals of the New Society in order that progress and development be enhanced.

It is therefore hoped that this celebration be colorful and meaningful to surpass other occasions that occurred during the past. May peace be with us and our conscience be cleared that the spirit of happiness be on our family and friends.

As Mayor of Casiguran, Subprovince of Aurora, the members of the Sangguniang Bayan, Barangay Captains, and my constituents in this Municipality join me in sincerely extending our utmost gratitude and congratulations to all.

Today, whenever we celebrate an occasion, we view the event in a very significant historical perspective. Our commemoration of the 100th birth anniversary of the great leader, politician, father and statesman – PRESIDENT MANUEL LUIS QUEZON – is our way of paying tribute not only to the man but also to our present collective effort at pursuing the ideals and values that man stood for, signifying our goals and aspirations as a people more so in the context of our present struggle for the formation of a new socio-economic political order.

It is with great pride that we look back to that fateful August 19, 1878 when the man destined to be one of the greatest actors in the annals of our political history was born. He would later stand out to be declared the-FATHER OF THE PHILIPPINE REPUBLIC.

When the great forces and strains of our historical experience at that time criss-crossed at the juncture where our solitary statesman stood – he acted and fought for what he believed to be what was right, proper and good for our people. He believed in our right at self government and fought for it for almost one-third of his lifetime. He was at the helm working for an independent Philippines and the goal was already within sight. The passing of the Tydings-McDuffy Law resulted in the 1935 Constitution – the basis of our system of government for the next couple of generations. It is indeed a tragedy that he died without witnessing the independence of our country. His efforts have not been in vain, for we, the Filipino peoples, still preserve the ideals that he stood and fought for.

In behalf of the citizens of the Municipality of Dilasag, Subprovince of Aurora, Quezon, I would want to humbly expound my ardent esteem to the centennial celebration of our late great President and we as a nation salute the man who declared: "I WOULD RATHER PREFER TO SEE THE PHILIPPINES RUN LIKE HELL BY A FILIPINO THAN TO SEE THIS COUNTRY RUN LIKE HEAVEN BY A FOREIGNER."

BRIEF SOCIO-ECONOMIC PROFILE

of Baler, Aurora Subprovince

by: MDC CONRADO P. AMAZONA

General Description:

Geographically, Baler lies in the northeastern part of Quezon Province. It is the center and capital town of Aurora Subprovince. The place is characteristically cool and invigorating. Generally, the topography of Baler is hilly but the populated area lies sprawled on the south-eastern part of the Baler Valley. It is surrounded with swamps and rivers which are potential for irrigation purposes. Baler is also rich in legends and histories.

Agriculture:

Baler is basically an agricultural community. Its base industries are rice and coconut production. Out of its 8,565 hectares total land area, 60% has been devoted to agriculture. Baler is self-sufficient in rice production. Of its agricultural total land area, 2,626 hectares are devoted to coconut productions.

Infrastructure:

Generally, all the barangays are now accessible to transportation either by jeepneys or tricycles. However, more of these barangay roads have to be improved and bridges to be constructed. Majority of the main thoroughfares in the poblacion have been paved. Below are listing of completed and proposed infrastructure projects:

Completed:

- a) Kinalapan Bailey Bridge
- b) Public Market Annex Building

Proposed:

- a) Agwang Bridge (connecting Baler to Reserva)
- b) Sabang Seawall (shoreline protection)
- c) Baler Port
- d) Watertank for water facilities sedimentation
- e) Municipal electrification

Education:

In the elementary level of education, Baler has no major problems since all the barangays have school buildings, majority with complete elementary education. However, secondary education should be provided in the locality. There are only two private high schools, one provincial and one barangay high school in Baler, with one college offering limited courses at present.

Tourism:

Potential for tourist development are as follow:

- a) The birth spot of the late President Manuel L. Quezon now converted to Quezon Park.
- b) Cemento, with its natural rock formation, a favorite picnickers place.
- c) Cave of Santa Isabel at sitio Castillo.
- d) The historic church of Baler.
- e) The white beach of Baler Bay.
- f) The Chapel at Ermita ridge overlooking the Pacific Ocean.
- g) Dicaloyungan watershed.

Health and Sanitation:

Health and sanitation in Baler has improved tremendously although there are more rooms for improvement. Garbage collections and drainage system remained as the two perennial problems in Poblacion, which the local administration is seriously and determined to resolve.

Employment:

The lack of manufacturing and commercial establishment in the locality creates a situation where job opportunities are difficult to find. However, the municipality of Baler, with its package financial plans for the next 5-year period, forces a bright financial increase beginning CY 1978. The proposed Tax Mapping of Real Estate administration Project which will be implemented next calendar year will surely increase the present municipal income by triple.

True, constraints in these opportunities may not be avoided. To mention some, Baler is a typhoon path and has an average of two to three typhoons which pass the locality yearly. Another is the transportation problem which isolates the town from the adjacent provinces which are potential markets for its farm produce.

BALER, AURORA SUB-PROVINCE

MENSAHE

Ang kapistahan ng ating banal na patron sa Baler, malalawigan ng Aurora Quezon — si San Luis Obispo ay sinasabayan sa taong ito — ng ika-100 taong ng pagsilang ng yumaong anak na dakila ng Baler — si Manuel Luis Quezon.

Ang kadakilaan ni Manuel L. Quezon ay laging nananatili sa ala-ala natin dahil sa siya'y unang pangulo ng ating Gobyernong Pilipinas at lalo't higit siya'y kinikilala na masigasig na taga-taguyod ng katarungang panlipunan sa ating bansa.

Sa kasalukuyan ang katarungan ay hindi na lamang isa sa mga patakaran ng lipunan. Ito'y pangunahing patakaran. Walang lipunan ang maaaring ipagmalaki ninuman kung hindi umuugat sa katarungan. Lalo na ngayon, sa pagkamulat ng mga tao, ating napapansin ang laganap at palagiang aspirasyon nila tungkol sa pagkakapantay-pantay at partisipasyon na kapuwa ay nagpapahiwatig ng pagkalikha ng Diyos sa tao: malaya at marangal. Kaya sa gitna ng kakulangan ng katarungan isinisigaw ng tao ang tinataglay na kanyang pagkatao.

Ang Mabuting Balita na ipinahayag ni San Luis Obispo ay natutuon sa pagibig ng Diyos sa tao. "Ganyan na lamang ang pagibig ng Diyos sa tao na isinugo niya ang kanyang bugtong na anak" upang ilaan ang buong sarili dahil sa atin. Samakatuwid, ang tao'y pinakamahalaga sa Diyos sapagkat ang tao'y kanyang pinakamamahal. Dahil dito, pinaninindigan ng Inang Simbahan na ang pagkilos alang-alang sa katarungan at ang pagpartisipa sa pagbabago ng lipunan ay kabahagi ng pagpapahayag ng Mabuting Balita ng paghahari ng Panginoon.

Nawa'y ang ating pagdiriwang ng ating Kapistahan sa Baler ay sabayan ng ating pagdiriwang ng ika-100 pagsilang ni Manuel Luis Quezon ayon sa nararapat. Alalaon бага, isang pagdiriwang na siyang magbibigay sa ating lahat ng panibagong pang-unawa, sigla at determinasyon na itaguyod ang katarungang panlipunan, na paglabanan ang lahat na pinanggagalingan ng pang-aapi at pagsasamantala sa tao, lalo na sa mga walang lakas at walang tinig dala ng kanilang kahirapan at katayuan sa lipunan.

The "MAN OF DESTINY" sits, pensively, overseeing the progress of the construction of his dream city. Did he, at that time, think that some day an imposing monument to honor him where his remains are destined to lie forever will rise on the same spot?

ABSENT:

Municipal Mayor of Baler, ABC President of Dinalungan,
Kabataang Presidents of Casiguran, Dinalungan,
Dingalan and Dipaculao.

SPECIAL UNNUMBERED RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, Aurora Subprovince has an area of 302,000 hectares, more or less, a population of 91,247 based on 1975 census, and an average annual income of P918,001.80, by virtue of which income, it had been reclassified from Fifth Class to Third Class province, under Department of Finance Order No. 42-73, dated 3 December 1973;

WHEREAS, the foregoing figures and statistics are mute testimonies that Aurora Subprovince can viably exist as a regular and independent province;

WHEREAS, practically all provincial and national offices needed by a regular province are already established and existing within Aurora Subprovince, and even the Supreme Court saw fit that there be the Aurora Chapter in the Integrated Bar of the Philippines, separate and distinct from that of Quezon;

WHEREAS, the existence of the offices mentioned in the immediately preceding paragraph notwithstanding, there are still official businesses and transactions that can only be done in Lucena City thereby, compelling government officials and ordinary citizens of Aurora Subprovince alike, to travel, a distance of more than 400 kilometers, a travel which is both money and time consuming;

WHEREAS, the segregation of Aurora Subprovince from Quezon, will immensely contribute to a much, much better administrative set-up, culminating in the process, acceleration of the social, economic, agricultural and industrial developments of the two areas; considering the incontrovertible fact that Quezon is our longest province, its southernmost part touching Bicol Region and its northernmost part (where Aurora Subprovince is situated) reaching up to Nueva Viscaya and Isabela;

A RESOLUTION REQUESTING HIS EXCELLENCY PRESIDENT FERDINAND E. MARCOS TO CREATE THE SUBPROVINCE OF AURORA INTO A REGULAR PROVINCE BY PRESIDENTIAL DECREE

WHEREAS, the New Constitution of the Philippines and the proposed Local Governments Code provide and recognize only four (4) forms of Local Governments namely: province, cities, municipalities and barangays and no subprovince;

WHEREAS, for 23 long years Aurora had been a subprovince and the only subprovince not converted into a regular province, sharing 30% of all provincial taxes; fines and other revenue collected within its boundaries; including 30% of Internal Revenue Allotment as provided for under Sec. 2142 of the Administrative Code which otherwise could have been used for its permanent improvements and benefits;

WHEREAS, almost all national and provincial government offices had already been organized in Baler, the capital town, the subprovince being very much isolated from the rest of Quezon Province, where one has to travel through four provinces and six cities to reach the capital city, Lucena;

WHEREAS, the creation of Aurora into a regular province will give its people the incentive, authority and facilities necessary to attain its goal of providing an atmosphere of economic prosperity to all and thereby contribute its share in the overall program of the Republic in creating a New Society by making it more respective to the needs of the people;

WHEREAS, the conversion of the Subprovince of Aurora into a regular province is an obsession of its inhabitants who have always made it known to visiting high ranking government officials and to His Excellency President Ferdinand E. Marcos himself;

NOW, THEREFORE, on motion of Councilor Bayani D. Sanchez duly seconded by Councilor Jesse P. Pimentel;

BE IT RESOLVED AS IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED, to respectfully request His Excellency, President Ferdinand E. Marcos, to create the Subprovince of Aurora into a regular province by Presidential Decree.

APPROVED UNANIMOUSLY.

APPROVED BY THE PROVINCIAL BOARD UNDER RESOLUTION NO. 301 DATED JUNE 30,

MENSAHE

Isang walang katulad na kasiyahan ang bumubukal sa aking puso, dahil sa inyong matimyas na pagaalaala at pagpaparangal sa aming minamahal na ama, sa ika-sandaang taon ng kanyang kapanganakan. At higit pang makabuluhan ang parangal naito, dahil ito'y nagbubuhay sa puso ng mga mamamayan ng Baler, ang bayang sinilangan at minahal ng aming butihing ama.

Sa isang anak, ang pinaka-dakilang pamana na maaari niyang tanggapin sa kanyang ama, ay ang patuloy at walang kupas na pagpapahalaga ng kanyang mga kalahi sa kanyang mga nagawa noong siya'y nabubuhay pa, sa kanyang naipakitang halimbawa, at sa kanyang pagiging isang tunay na Pilipino na nagtaguyod sa kadakilaan ng kanyang bayan at kabutihan ng kanyang kapuwa Pilipino.

Dahil dito, ako at ang aking kapatid ay taos-pusong nagpapasalamat sa inyong mga pagsisikap upang ang mga gintong alaala ng aking ama'y manatiling buhay sa kalooban ng lahat na Pilipino. Sa inyong pagbibigay ng parangal, nawa'y maipalaganap din ninyo ang mga mahahalagang asal at layunin, ang mga kapaki-pakinabang na mga simulain at panuntunan na iniwan niya sa ating lahat, upang ang mga ito'y magamit natin ngayon sa pagtatampok sa kasarinlan, kasaganaan at kapayapaan sa ating bansa.

IMMORTAL WORDS OF MANUEL LUIS QUEZON

"My loyalty to my party ends where my loyalty to my country begins."

"I prefer a government run like hell by the Filipinos than a government run like heaven by the Americans."

"The voice of the people is the voice of God only when it expresses a judgment formed within the safe channels of serene reflection."

"The rights of the majority as well as the minority should be respected and recognized."

"We shall build a strong government that will be just, efficient and strong so that the foundations of the coming Republic may be firm and enduring – a government indeed, that must satisfy not only the passing needs of the hour but also the exacting demands of the future."

"A new edifice shall arise, not out of the ashes of the past but out of the standing materials of the living present."

"Other peoples of the world are straining themselves to attain higher levels of progress and national security. We shall not, we must not lag behind."

"I have a very soft heart but I have a strong will power, and I will not help a boy to become lazy and easy-going."

"I stopped every kind of abuse of the people known to me, and I assured the common man of protection."

"I charged large fees to the rich and none whatever to the poor. I lost no cases."

"Before I entered politics, I had a profession, practised it and made a success of it, both from the standpoint of my reputation as a competent lawyer and as a lover of justice."

"The position of a fiscal gave only a salary of P150. I decided to accept it as a call of public duty."

"So long as the nationalistic sentiment is not fostered to the point where a person forgets that it forms a part of the human family; that the good of the mankind should be the ultimate aim of all and every nation; and that conflicting national interests are temporary and that there is always a just formula for adjusting them, nationalism is noble, elevating and most beneficial sentiment."

"Although I am a nationalist, my nationalism is not orthodox."

"I am one of those who believe that Religion exercises a wholesome influence upon man, both as an individual and as a citizen."

"My election was practically unanimous though there was a candidate against me and I made no compromise."

"We recognize no substitute, admit no alternative, concede no reduction of our righteous demands for the absolute independence of the Philippines."

"I have been all around the world. I travel to study . . . my trips are all for the good of the country."

"As a good father, I did not want my children to suffer the hunger and privation that I suffered."

"I came from a poor family. I am a poor man's son."

Maj. Gen. Pedro Q. Molina with wife, Mrs. Evangeline Mendeña Molina and children – from left – Maria Candelaria, Maria Isabel, Pedro Juan, Maria Paz.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF MAJOR GENERAL PEDRO Q. MOLINA AFP (Ret.)

Major General Pedro Q. Molina, a statuesque military officer whose quiet dignity and most unassuming manners have elicited a lot of respect and admiration from among his comrades-in-arms and even evoked faster heartbeats from among our womankind hereabouts, might very well be considered as another "Star of Baler!" Of course, he did not have the flair for dramatics and spectacle that his uncle, President Manuel L. Quezon, had — but all the same, his military career was an enviable and impressive record of achievements for which our country has benefitted in no small measure. Indeed, his career was replete with outstanding and monumental achievements, even if these have sometimes escaped public notice because they were characterized by quiet pageantry. His deeds during World War II which won for him a Purple Heart and several other medals and decorations; his own gallant stand in Bataan as a simple soldier, and his survival from the infamous Death March and the concentration camp in Capas — all these, and more, were not "heroic exploits" to him but merely a "part of the day's work!" Looking through his modesty and humility in our search for truth and meaning, it can be said — and it will not be denied — that for sheer merit as a dedicated soldier and career man in the military; as a patriot par excellence, he can stand tall and erect, distinctive and glorious deserving so richly all the honors bestowed

In the annals of our military history, it is written that it was during General Molina's stewardship that the Philippine Air Force had finally arrived... into the jet-age; that it was he who made the "first steps" towards its expansion, its revitalization and its modernization. The jet combat planes that are guarding and maintaining peace in our skies, and the technical strength of our Air-Arm today can be happily traced back and be attributed to his vision, insight, grit and determination. Among the many contributions that can be credited to him were the establishment of the PAF Flying School; the PAF Technical School, the Air Command and Staff School, and the country's first Air Defense and Warning System.

General Molina's educational preparation goes back to his days at the Ateneo de Manila where he finished his grade school and high school. His military training began at the Philippine Constabulary Academy (now the Philippine Military Academy) and, later, he joined the Philippine Army Flying School where he graduated as a military pilot.

Studies abroad enriched his military training further. He graduated as military pilot from US Army Flying Schools: at Randolph and Kelly Fields, and at Enid Field, Oklahoma. He took up other aviation courses at Tyndall Air Force, Florida; at Air Command and Staff College, Air University (USAF) in Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama, and at Southern Pines, North Carolina.

In addition to this extensive aviation training, he also took up the Civil Air Transport Course at the American University in Washington, D.C., and for good measure, he had observation trips and special studies on the air transportation of Australia, of the United States and of Canada.

General Molina held various positions of responsibility, rising from rank to rank in the Philippine Air Force: as Junior Officer, as Staff Officer, then as commander in the different levels of the Command. He moved on from the Squadron to the Group, and then to the Wing, till finally he assumed the position of Commanding General, a position he held in the PAF for five consecutive years. He moved on further when he was appointed Deputy Chief of Staff of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, and subsequently Vice Chief of Staff, with the rank of Major General.

While serving as a major keyman in the Armed Forces of the Philippines, he represented our country in several vital conferences abroad. He was a member of the Philippines-US Mutual Defense Board, as Commander of the Eastern Region-SEATO, and also a member of the PI Delegation to a SEATO Conference in Karachi, Pakistan.

General Molina closed his quiet but distinguished military career after having served the Armed Forces of the Philippines for thirty years. On July 4, 1964, he retired from active service in the military. And all told, his career has been resplendent with medals of distinction and various other decorations awarded by our own government and by foreign countries. Among the honors bestowed upon him were:

1. Distinguished Conduct Star
2. Distinguished Service Cross (US)
3. Distinguished Service Star with 2 Banahaw Oak Leaf (BAL.)
4. Legion of Merit (Degree of Commander) U.S.
5. Military Merit Medal
6. Wounded Personnel Medal
7. Purple Heart (US)
8. Long Service Medal with 1 Bronze Star
9. Philippine Defense Medal with 1 Bronze Star
10. Philippine Liberation Medal
11. American Defense Service Medal with 1 Bronze Star
12. Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal
13. World War II Victory Medal
14. Philippine Independence Medal
15. Anti-Dissidence Campaign Ribbon
16. Korean Campaign Medal
17. United Nations Service Medal
18. Philippine Republic Unit Citation Badge
19. Distinguished Unit Badge with 2 Oak Leaf Clusters
20. Order of Military Merit (Republic of Korea)
21. Award of the Medal of Cloud and Banner (Republic of China)

Indeed, General Molina's retirement at age 48 was a loss to the military. But he turned to be a mighty gain to private civilian endeavors. His expertise in things aeronautical, his counsel, and the inspiration he has never failed to generate have continued to be a blessing to our country.

After his retirement, he helped organize AIR MANILA, INC. as Vice President for Traffic and Sales. He also helped established Aerospace Power. Today, as President of National Aero Manufacturing Corporation, General Molina is continuing to help not only the government but also the hundreds of private aircraft owners in our republic.

Major General Pedro Q. Molina, born in Baler March 30, 1916, is the oldest son of Teodorico Molina with whom he is blessed with three daughters and a son.

BRIEF HISTORY OF BALER

On the northeastern part of Tayabas (now Quezon Province), lies a relatively small town, located at the mouth of a horseshoe valley nestling in the Caraballo Range of the Sierra Madre Mountains. On its eastern part is the Pacific Ocean.

A. Legend

According to the Noceda San Lugar, a Spanish dictionary printed in 1860 explaining the nature and origin of Spanish terms, the word "Baler" came from the term "balod," a kind of paloma montes which means "mountain dove," a type which was once abundant in the area, making it a "cradle of balod." This legend is the most popular and wide accepted even by the Surian ng Wikang Pambansa.

Other legends explaining the origin of the town of Baler include an old woman who was met by a group of Spanish soldiers who landed in the area and who asked the former what the name of the place. She responded "Vale" thinking that the soldiers were asking what her name was. Also, the early natives of the place used to call the lowland "balid" meaning "to return" an expression they uttered every time they would arrive from their travels in the surrounding mountains. However, many old people of the town believe that the origin of the name "baler" could be traced from the regime of Lakan Balid before the Spaniards came, and during the time of Fray Valeriano who was responsible for the founding of the barangay.

B. Founding of the Town

The founding of Baler dates back to the year 1609 with the coming of seven intrepid Franciscan missionaries led by Fray Blas Palomino who penetrated the thick forests of the eastern part of Caraballo Mountains. Under the leadership of Fray Francisco de San Antonio, other places near the bay were ministered in 1611. This small settlement was improved by the Augustinians and the Recollects who arrived in 1658. In 1703, the administration of the town was given back to the Franciscans due to the scarcity of religious missionaries in the country.

This town was originally situated at the right of a river named San Jose which had its source in the Caraballo Mountains and flows west to east into a big bay which was later named after the town. The early inhabitants of this town were mostly farmers, fishermen, gatherers of honey-bee and hunters numbering to 35,000 more or less. For trade purposes, the natives reached as far as Gapan, Nueva Ecija as Baler was then a principal town of "El Principe," a district of the province of Nueva Ecija.

On September 27, 1735, Baler was completely demolished by Tromba Marina, a phenomenal tidal wave that had left only fourteen families. Among them were the Lumasac, Angara, Bitong, Carrasco, Poblete and the Bijasa. Led by the town missionary, Fray Jose de San Rafael, they swam to a neighboring hill, just by the side of the town. After the water had subsided, the survivors decided to resettle in the site by the sea which they called "kinagunasan," meaning "devastated." Later, they decided to resettle in a new site which is now the poblacion of Baler.

In the year 1798, a strong force of Moro pirates that had headquarters in Burias Islands and Ticao attacked the village of Baler and other towns on the eastern coast of Luzon. The towns were devastated; about 450 people were held captive, including three parish priests, one of whom was allegedly sold.

Long before the Muslim invasion, the site of the demolished church of Baler with the town's patron, San Luis Obispo de Tolosa was made the site of the new church, built largely of stones and bricks. This was the old but historically legendary garrison during the Spanish regime. It existed until the last month of 1939 when the concrete foundation of the new church was laid, as the old church was almost eroding and falling into pieces. The new church (which exists up to the present) was built through the initiative of the late President Quezon, his wife Doña Aurora and their family and friends and with the cooperative efforts of the townspeople.

To the old folks, the church of Baler which they called "La Iglesia de Baler" had been a very significant defense during the revolutions and the wars. The story of the old church had been portrayed in a movie-slide for cultural presentation bearing the title "La Campana de Baler," taken during the late fifties.

The significance of the town of Baler in the history of the country is revealed in a marker installed by the Philippine Historical Commission at the church of the town reading;

A Spanish garrison of four officers and fifty men besieged in this church by Filipino insurgents from June 27, 1899. Offers of peace and demand were refused on five occasions. From newspapers dropped into the court by an emissary of General Rios on May 29, the garrison learned for the first time that the Philippines had been lost to Spain and for many months there had been no Spanish flag in Luzon except the one waving over the Baler church. Broken starvation, tropical disease and depleted command arranged a truce with insurgents and marched out of the church across the mountains to Manila on June 2, 1899. Off the original garrison, two officers, the priest and twelve men had been killed by insurgent bullets, two men had been wounded; six men had deserted. The fortitude of the garrison was praised by General Emilio Aguinaldo in a public document at Tarlac on June 20, 1899. Upon the return to Spain the survivors were rewarded by the Queen Regent in the name of Alfonso XIII and the Spanish nation.

C. Present Status of the Town

Upon the arrival of the Carmelite Missionaries to the Philippines in 1947, the town was placed under their supervision on matters of mission work. A group of American Carmelite priests under the leadership of Msgr. Patrick Shanley came to the area upon the request of the late Doña Aurora Aragon Quezon who then realized the need for evangelical mission in the area.

Since 1951, Baler remains to be the capital town of the Subprovince of Aurora. It is 232 kilometers from the city of Manila. Its area had been decreased tremendously for its big barrios such as Maria Aurora, Dipaculao, San Luis and Dingalan had been converted into separate municipalities. It has a total land area of 8,565 hectares, making a total of eight barrios: Buhangin, Sabang, Calabuanan, Suklayin, Zabali, Pingit, Reserva and Obligacion.

There are four main rivers in the vicinity of the town: Agwang in the north; Duongan in the east; Kinalapan in the southwestern part of the poblacion and Suklayin Creek in the western portion of the town.

Significant landmarks, natural beauties and scenic spots found in the area include the birthplace of the late President Manuel Luis Quezon which has been converted into the Quezon Memorial Park found in the heart of the town. At the center of this park is found a marker bearing a short life account of the late president. This is where the house of the Quezons once stood, a relatively small house, made of wood, bamboo and nipa materials. In the event of time, the place was made the center of the people's recreation and a place for remembering the good hero.

The Roman Catholic Church is situated just south of the park.

In its vicinity stands the Mount Carmel College, the only educational institution of higher learning in the Subprovince of Aurora.

In the eastern part of the town is a beautiful and long beach along coconut grooves. The beach ranges from the southern portion of Casiguran, and flows to Dinalungan and Dipaculao, southward. In the southern part of the beach, Bo. Cemento is located. Cemento is one of the most scenic spots in the region, with its picnic resorts by the foot of the hills and mountains. The beach has been blessed with corrals and reefs. Here, the vacation house of the Quezon family once stood.

Just at the foot of Mount Castillo, a hill in the southern part of the town, is located a cave which the people call Cave of Santa Isabel, named after the patroness of the barrio. This cave is said to have been built by Fray Jose de Esparagoza during the height of the Muslim invasion of the place in the eighteenth century.

On top of the hill, ruins of an old chapel could be seen. This place is said to have been used for religious rites in honor of the patroness of the barrio. The old town was demolished during the phenomenal tidal wave. From this place, one can see the whole bay and the town, as well as the neighboring barrios and towns.

Other spots in the town are now being developed and improved for tourists attraction.

This is Baler, a small town which cannot be forgotten by many people, it being the birth place of the late President Manuel Luis Quezon, the father of Philippine Independence, the promoter of social justice and the father of the Filipino National Language. It cannot be forgotten in the country's history for it once served as the last seat of Spanish conquest in the Philippines.

THE DYNAMIC CHIEF

By FEDERICO LICSI ESPINO, JR.

The Commonwealth era is probably one of the most colorful chapters in our history. It was an age during which the country was engulfed by a flood of resurgent nationalistic ideas. It was an age which saw many colorful personalities, the arresting if suave Osmeña, the brilliant Laurel, the engrossing Recto and a host of other political luminaries. But in this galaxy of brilliant men, one star outshined the rest, the man who is often referred to as the star of Baler, President Manuel Luis Quezon.

Much of the color of the Commonwealth era was due to Quezon, a man with a dynamic, many-faceted personality. A Don Juan among chief of states, his personality was of the sort which made an immediate impact the first time one talked with him. This arresting personality was further enhanced by his Beau Brummelish choice of clothes. Two writers once said of him: "... Quezon's exemplariness did not stop in his being considered an ideal politician; his sartorial perfection was noted by persons appreciative of the niceties of attire; and like the old Roman hedonist and the young Prince of Wales, he became the arbiter elegantiarum of his people."

The Quezonian temper is well-known and so are the Quezonian invectives. One famous outburst of this temper has been recounted by the American colonial careerist, George Malcolm in his book:

"The colorful and momentous event took place before distinguished guests and a mass assembly estimated at a quarter of a million people. Only one hitch developed in the carefully planned program (the induction into office of Quezon). At the glorious moment when Quezon was to sign the oath of office as President of the Philippines, he turned to his indispensable secretary Jorge B. Vargas for pens — and no pens were forthcoming. A lusty Quezonian curse rent the microphones and signed the embarrassed "George."

Indeed, the Quezonian invectives become part of the Quezon legend. But probably nobody has understood the invective as much as Manuel Nieto, Quezon's intimate friend and bodyguard. Nieto's appraisal of Quezon's flair for his invectives is very revealing: "President Quezon's curse is more of a benediction than a malediction."

Another outburst of the Quezonian temper was recounted by Carlos Quirino in his Quezon, Man of Destiny:

"The editor of a newspaper in Spanish, La Democracia, had been attacking Quezon for his record as fiscal of Mindoro. The attacks were so servilous that on January 7, 1909, Quezon, accompanied by Assemblymen Juan Villamor and Lerma, paid a call to the editorial offices of the newspaper. Upon seeing the editor, Quezon held him by the neck, shook him as a terrier would shake a rat, then pushed him away so vigorously that he fell to the floor. Mutual friends separated the two assailants."

But if Quezon was temperamental and vengeful with his enemies he was extremely kind with friends and old classmates. If today there is a civil service regulation providing that employees who have served the government for at least 30 years be exempt from taking the civil service examination, it was because Quezon did not want an ex-classmate to be removed from the government service because he was not a civil service eligible. This friend of Quezon, an old clerk connected with the Cavite court of first instance, went to Quezon once to inform him that he is being asked by the Civil Service to vacate his job because he did not take the tests. The clerk said he was too old to memorize and that he could perform his job better than a fresh civil service eligible.

Greatly moved by his answer, Quezon phoned the commissioner of civil service and asked him to make a ruling exempting old government employees from taking the test.

But above all, Quezon was an extraordinary politician. His persuasive powers were phenomenal and although he may not be as great as a statesman as Sergio Osmeña who later on became President during the twilight of the Commonwealth Era, he was a dynamic politician. But like all politicians, he had his faults.

It was he who introduced the junket system into Philippine politics. Then taking a cue from that off-shoot of Andrew Jackson's politician credo, the so-called spoil system, he introduced it to the country. His inauguration speech when he became president of the Philippine Senate after the elections which according to Isabelo P. Caballero and M. de Gracia Concepcion "left much to be desired from the standpoint of clean politics" is a classic expression of the Jacksonian theory:

"The will of the majority, being known through the result of an election, that majority elevated to power must be given all opportunity to carry out its program. Thus it is just, nay, even essential that the victorious majority should occupy the administrative offices, the same as it has obtained the elective positions."

Another thing Quezon introduced into Philippine politics was the press bureau of Quezon, more than anybody else knew the value of good publicity through the mass media. He also knew harmful effects of bad publicity and because of this, members of the press who were hostile towards him became his enemy. It is interesting to note that Francisco Varona, one time editor of La Vanguardia, lost his job because of an editorial criticizing Quezon's "gloomy monomania which would serve eternally as a shadow to his name..."

But despite his faults, Quezon was a nationalist of the first order. The history of our struggle for independence cannot be retold without mentioning his name. He was mainly responsible for the passage of the Jones Law in 1916 and the Tydings-McDuffie Law in 1934. And this is perhaps the best index of his nationalism.

STAR OF BALER

His fierce struggle for freedom and independence has touched our lives, and indeed, all of us owe him a debt of gratitude.

Because of him and his relentless crusade, the Filipino people can at long last, actually seek their place in the sun. With his inspiration we, as a people, will continue to strive for higher ideals — and life, as before, will continue to be a full of heroism.

Because of him, we, as a people or as a single individuals will never again be apologetic nor afraid!

THE JOSE M. MANALO FAMILY

President MANUEL LUIS QUEZON'S achievements will remain a glorious page in our history, and most especially his struggle for national independence will continue to be a distinct dedication that is worthy of emulation to each one of us.

Judge JOSE P. FLORES

DR. ROMEO T. CHUA

Man's success in his profession is measured not in terms of gold and influence. It is in the amount he gives of himself to others that others may enjoy more of life. To the people he serves Dr. Romeo T. Chua exemplifies this philosophy of giving oneself to others.

Dr. Chua rose from the ranks. A graduate of the UST College of Medicine, he was appointed as Junior Resident Physician of the Aurora Memorial Hospital in 1964. He became a Senior Resident Physician that same year. He was promoted to Chief of the Aurora Memorial Hospital in 1976 and the people feel happy for him. It is a hard-earned, well-deserved promotion. Since 1970 the Aurora Memorial Hospital is literally a one-doctor hospital. And it is a source of wonder among patients and observers how Dr. Chua could remain fresh, calm, and comforting after a 24-hour service.

Several development projects have been completed under his administration. These include the dormitory for the staff, the 25-bed annex, the concrete fence and improved landscape, purchase of modern equipment, and staff development. The hospital has assumed a new sense of confidence and an abiding faith among its clientele, particularly the residents of the Subprovince.

Dr. Chua hails from Cabanatuan City. He was born on April 10, 1936 to Leonardo Chua and Priscilla Maura Talplacido. He is married to Zenaida Mozo.

The Church of Baler

Quezon Park — Birthplace of the President.

FATHER OF ALL MANKIND, We ask you to look upon your people,/ and fill our hearts with your spirit,/ that we may have the grace/ and the wisdom to look into ourselves,/ and in so doing,/ see our weaknesses and our strengths./

So many of us have lived in corruption/ greed and violence,/ forgetting that this nation — unless we learn to live as brothers,/ striving not for selfish ends,/ but for the common good.

Give us strength to rebuild our lives,/ leaving forever our selfish,/ corrupt and derelict ways.

Make us see what we are/ and what we could be,/ open our eyes,/ our minds and our hearts/ to the things that need to be done,/ and the things we can do/ to make this rich and beautiful land/ a joy and comfort to all our people.

We have set for ourselves/ great and never-ending tasks;/ stand by us in our labors,/ and teach us not to weary/ nor lose our faith,/ neither to seek the full measure of our own reward beyond what is just,/ but rather to see in our work/ the full measure of our own reward,/ and see in it/ the full expression of ourselves.

When the day's toil is ended,/ teach us to look to the morrow's labor/ as part of our continuing sacrifice;/ bring us not to the temptation of luxury,/ ease or privilege,/ nor to the brandishments of power or comfort that corrupt;/ but make of us a sturdy race,/ self-reliant,/ cheerful and upright.

Teach those who lead/ to act with firmness/ but with humility,/ with humility but with wisdom/ with wisdom but with justice,/ and with justice/ but with compassion,/ and teach those who follow/ the true duties of being men/ and members of a community of men.

Cleanse us of our anger,/ our bitterness,/ and our recriminations of the past,/ spare us the doubts and anxieties of the present;/ and purify us for our sacrifice/ so that we may raise a people/ who will be their own warranty against the future.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT KABATAANG BARANGAY

On September 21, 1972, the Philippine Republic launched a programme to build a New Society. Reforms were instituted while social order was restored. Political stability was ensured under a New Constitution. Land reform was implemented throughout the country and new policies gave impetus to economic development. Within the short historical span of five years, a great deal of change and progress now stand in marked contrast to the preceding four and a half centuries of colonial exploitation and the twenty-six years of oligarchic rule.

The significance of contemporary developments in the Philippines affair extends beyond the dramatic interest invoked by the proclamation of martial law. Through all spheres of national life, changes of momentous importance to the future of institutions have already had considerable impact on people's lives. The New Society demands more, however, than government revamp and economic planning it requires that a new Filipino should arise from all ranks. President Marcos has written, 'The step towards democratic revolution is a moral one ... Everyone is guilty. Social corruption exists because of general consent and toleration. This is the full moral perception of the revolution that has been bequeathed to us'. It is this heroic challenge for a New Filipino that confronts the youth, the second generation of democratic revolutionaries, today.

On April 15, 1975, the Kabataang Barangay was invested by Presidential Decree 684 into this sacred national duty. A youth force of seven million 15 to 21-year olds have been endowed with the youngest voting age in the world, a serious participatory role in all levels of local and national assembly, and a though-going equality with the senior barangay members. The alienation and agitation of the 60's and the early 70's had at last been recognized, and the young were restored in trust and participation in government. Once again, President Marcos asserted. "Many have asked me about succession. ... I have answered the Kabataang Barangay, 'You are my political heirs'.

Five years after the New Society's inception, on September 21, 1977, the Kabataang Barangay has seen fit to respond to the national challenge and proclaimed its own Constitution. Fired by the spirit of 'Makialam! Ikaw and bagong Pilipino' the KB has evolved anew consciousness (Kamalayan) and a new productivity (Kakayahayan).

1.) Firstly, consciousness, involvement and participation all require a knowledge of every individual's responsibility in barangay and nationwide undertakings. Hence, the KB Constitution acclaims the National Assembly of 42,000 Chairmen and their subsequent membership as the supreme mass base of the entire movement. From them all power and leadership emanates. It is this mass grouping which must be called to formulate all KB decisions. It the most important body in the Kabataang Barangay and the constitution maintains it as the youth's fundamental grassroots.

For each city and province, a Federation President is elected to compose the National Council which recommends programmes and policies to the Department of Local Government and Community Development. During the annual convention or other special convention called by its members, the council studies the Assembly's decision in operational and working terms.

Finally, to implement the programmes and policies a National Executive Committee made up of all 12 Regional Federation Presidents and the Metro Manila Federation President is formed to constantly coordinate with the KB Secretariat and the Senior Barangays. Once every three months, they meet to evaluate existing programmes and when necessary a special convention may be called. This 13-man body acts as the KB representation to the Batasang Bayan. Thus through this inverted pyramid organizational mechanism the KB hopes to forge youth's legitimacy in Philippine government.

President Marcos elucidates on the principle of youth participation, 'Sometime ago, I was asked why I included 15-year olds. . . in assemblies that decide the fate of our nation. My answer was that I wanted to combine the wisdom of the young with the foolishness of the old.

To serve the barangay better and live up to the "Makialam" thrust, KBs community projects, are assured of insurance coverage for chairmen.

"The promise of a new beginning in a society has dawned among us. And yet, whatever promises there are can only be realized if we learn to play our vital role in the society.

The Kabataang Barangay offers us a means through which our talents, ideals, vigor and visions could be channeled to effective participation in the advancement of a new social order.

Move into action! Do your part/ The progress of our people and our nation rests in the tenacity of our involvement in the Kabataang Barangay.

The tasks we need to accomplish are formidable. Our path is strewn with thousand obstacle. Many times along the way, our consciousness will be dimmed by misgivings, frustrations, hopelessness, and pain.

But we are young and we alone posses the strength to conquer frustrations and hopelessness.

Remember our brothers and sisters in the Kabataang Barangay who, like us are confronted with the same social ills that need to be eradicated. They strive vigilantly to realize the ideals of the Kabataang Barangay through various activities geared towards social generation and national development. Remember — our strength is their strength, our dream is their dream; in the service of our fellowmen we are one.

Deeper commitment and involvement in national development is now our concern. The Kabataang Barangay will help us span the depths and heights of relevant involvement and commitment to the cause of national development. Bear in mind that development is not only growth, it is also a change in basic attitudes of our people that they may become receptive to innovations in society and government.

Our role therefore, is focal in national development and social change. Strike at the roots of social ills-inequity, oppression, injustice, and discontent, and build for ourselves, our prople and posterity a new nation, a new society.

In the interest of our people, the advancement of social change and national development, strengthen your commitment to the Kabataang Barangay — the living conscience of the present-day Philippine society."

INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF HIS EXCELLENCY MANUEL L. QUEZON ON NOVEMBER 15, 1935

FELLOW COUNTRYMEN: In the exercise of your constitutional prerogative you have elected me to the presidency of the Commonwealth. I am profoundly grateful for this new expression of your confidence, and God helping me I shall not fail you.

The event which is now taking place in our midst transcends in importance the mere induction into office of your Chief Executive. We are seeing the fruition of our age-old striving for liberty. We are witnessing the final stage in the fulfillment of the noblest undertaking ever attempted by any nation in its dealing with a subject people. And how well this task has been performed is attested to by the blessings from fourteen million people which go to America in this solemn hour. President McKinley's cherished hope has been fulfilled — the Filipinos look back with gratitude to the day when Destiny placed their land under the beneficent guidance of the people of the United States.

It is fitting that high dignitaries of the American Government should attend these ceremonies. We are thankful to them for their presence here. The President of the United States, His Excellency, Franklin D. Roosevelt, ever solicitous of our freedom and welfare, has sent to us, as his personal representative, the Secretary of War, Honorable George H. Dern, whose friendship for our people has proven most valuable in the past. Vice President Garner, Speaker Byrns, distinguished members of the House of Representatives have traveled ten thousand miles to witness this historic event. I feel that by their presence the whole American Nation is here today to rejoice with us in the fulfillment of America's pledge generously given that the Filipino people is to become free and independent. It is my hope that the ties of friendship and affection which bind the Philippines to America will remain unbroken and grow stronger after the severance of our political relations with her.

In behalf of the Filipino people, I express deep appreciation to Honorable Frank Murphy, our last Governor General for his just and efficient administration and for the wholehearted assistance he has rendered us in the difficult task of laying the constitutional foundations of our new Government.

As we enter upon the threshold of independent nationhood, let us pause for a moment to pay tribute to the memory of Rizal and Bonifacio and all the heroes of our sacred cause in grateful acknowledgement of their patriotic devotion and supreme sacrifice.

Fellow countrymen: The government which we are inaugurating today is only a means to an end. It is an instrumentality placed in our hands to prepare ourselves fully for the responsibilities of complete independence. It is essential that this last step be taken with full consciousness of its significance and the great opportunity is that it affords to us.

Under the Commonwealth, our life may not be one of the ease and comfort, but rather of hardship and sacrifice. We shall face the problems which lie in our path, sparing neither time nor effort in solving them. We shall build a government that will be just, honest, efficient, and strong so that the foundations of the coming Republic may be firm and enduring — a government, indeed, that must satisfy not only the passing needs of the hour but also the exacting demands of the future. We do not have to tear down the existing institutions in order to give way to a statelier structure. There will be no violent changes from the established order of things, except such as may be absolutely necessary to carry into effect the innovations contemplated by the Constitution. A new edifice shall arise, not out of the ashes of the past, but out of the standing materials of the living present.

Reverence for law as the expression of the popular will is the starting point in a democracy. The maintenance of peace and public order is the joint obligation of the government and the citizen. I have an abiding faith in the good sense of the people and in their respect for law and the constituted authority. Widespread public disorder and lawlessness may cause the downfall of constitutional government and lead to American intervention. Even after independence, if we should prove ourselves incapable of protecting life, liberty, and property of nationals and foreigners, we shall be exposed to the danger of intervention by foreign powers. No one need have any misgivings as to the attitude of the Government toward lawless individuals or subversive movements. They shall be dealt with firmly. Sufficient armed forces will be maintained at all times to quell and suppress any rebellion against the authority of this Government or the sovereignty of the United States.

There can be no progress except under the auspices of peace. Without peace and public order it will be impossible to promote education, improve the condition of the masses, protect the poor and ignorant against exploitation, and otherwise insure the enjoyment of life, liberty, and property. I appeal, therefore, to every Filipino to give the Government his loyal support so that tranquility may reign supreme in our beloved land.

Our Constitution establishes an independent judiciary by providing for security of tenure and compensation of our judges. But independence is not the only objective of a good judiciary. Equally, if not more important, is its integrity which will depend upon the judicious selection of its members. The administration of justice cannot be expected to rise higher than the moral and intellectual standards of the men who dispense it. To bulwark the fortification of an orderly and just government, it shall be my task to appoint to the bench only men of proven honesty, character, learning, and ability, so that every one may feel when he appears before the courts of justice that he will be protected in his rights, and that no man in this country from the Chief Executive to the last citizen is above the law.

We are living to-day amidst the storm and stress of one of the most tragic epochs of history. Acute unemployment and economic distress threaten the stability of governments the world over. The very foundations of civilized society are shaken. The common man alone can save humanity from disaster. It is our duty to prove to him that under a republican system of government he can have every opportunity to attain his happiness and that of his family. Protection to labor, especially to working women and minors, just regulation of the relations between labor and capital in industry and agriculture, solicitous regard on the part of the government for the well-being of the masses are the means to bring about the needed economic and social equilibrium between the component elements of society.

A government draws the breath of life from its finances, and it must balance its income and expenditures as any other going business concern if it expects to survive. It is my duty, then, to see that the Government of the Commonwealth live within its means and that it stand four-square on a well balanced budget.

The larger expenditures which the grave responsibilities ahead of us will entail, including national defense, must be borne by taxation. So long as we are able to meet those responsibilities from our present income we shall not impose new taxes. But we are among the least taxed people in the world and therefore, when necessity arise, we should be willing to accept the burden of increased taxation. Liberty and independence can be possessed only by those who are ready to pay the price in life or fortune.

To enable us more adequately to meet the new responsibilities of the Commonwealth and to raise the living conditions of our people, we must increase the wealth of the Nation by giving greater impetus to economic development, improving our methods of agriculture, diversifying our crops, creating new industries, and fostering our domestic and foreign commerce. I trust that the forthcoming trade conference between representatives of the United States and the Philippines will result in a more just and beneficial commercial relations between the two countries.

The establishment of an economical, simple, and efficient government; the maintenance of an independent civil service; the implantation of an adequate system of public instruction to develop moral character, personal discipline, civic conscience, and vocational efficiency; the safeguarding of the health and vigor of the race; the conservation and development of our natural resources — these and other matters of equal import are touched upon at length in the platform of the Coalition and in my speech of acceptance of my nomination, and it is unnecessary for me to reiterate my views regarding them. Having been elected on virtuality of that platform and the policies enunciated by me in the course of the presidential campaign renew my pledge faithfully to carry them into execution.

Good-will towards all nations shall be the golden rule of my administration. The peoples of the earth are interdependent and their prosperity and happiness are inseparably linked with each other. Amity and friendship, fairness and square deal in our relations with other nations and their citizens or subjects, protection in their legitimate investments and pursuits, in return for their temporary allegiance to our institutions and laws, are the assurances I make on behalf of the New Government to Americans and foreigners who may desire to live, trade, and otherwise associate with us in the Philippines.

In the enormous tasks of fully preparing ourselves for independence we shall be beset with serious difficulties, but we will resolutely march forward. I appeal to your patriotism and summon your nobility of heart so that we may, united in the common endeavor, once more dedicate ourselves to the realization of our national destiny. I face the future with hope and fortitude, certain that God never abandons a people who ever follow His unerring and guiding Hand. May He give me light, strength, and courage evermore that I may not falter in the hour of service to my people.

JUAN ANGARA Y CALDERON

(A Biographical Sketch)

Juan Angara y Calderon was born in Baler, Tayabas (now Quezon) on March 8, 1900. He is the fourth child, among five children, of Candido Angara and Nicolasa Calderon. His paternal ancestors trace their origin to the province of Pangasinan, his maternal to the Bicol Region. The Angara family is one of the first families, along with the Lumasac and Bitong, to settle in what is now popularly known as Baler.

He finished the primary grades at the Lucban Elementary School, Lucban, Tayabas (now Quezon) and the intermediate grades in Cabanatuan, Nueva Ecija. He took the first and second year high school at the San Isidro Provincial High School, San Isidro, Nueva Ecija. After completing the second year high school he enrolled in the Philippine General Hospital, School of Nursing and was granted the Certificate of Registered Nurse in 1923. While employed as a head nurse in the Philippine General Hospital he attended the third and fourth year high school at the Manila University and graduated in 1925. He obtained the degree of Doctor in Dental Medicine from the Philippine Dental College in 1931.

Dr. Angara held several positions in the government service. Among these are the position of (a) Head Nurse, Philippine General Hospital, 1923-1925 and 1929-1931; (b) Classroom Teacher, Baler Elementary School, 1925-1928; (c) Municipal Mayor of Baler 1934-1937 and 1940-1945; (d) Medical Officer with the rank of First Lieutenant, 103rd Squadron (Grla. Bn.), LGAP, during World War II; (e) Municipal Councilor of Baler, 1947-1950; and (f) Lieutenant Governor, Subprovince of Aurora, 1951-1955. In the latter position he was awarded a Certificate of Commendation by the First Military Area Command, Armed Forces of the Philippines for outstanding services in the peace and order campaign.

Of his achievements in the government service he considers three as of utmost importance. As Mayor of Baler he has fostered harmony among the native Tagalogs and the emigrant Ilocanos. Also as Mayor of Baler and at the same time a guerilla officer during World War II he has checked the atrocities of the Japanese soldiers and deaths among his constituents were few. As Municipal Council of Baler and later the Lieutenant Governor of Aurora he had been actively involved in the creation of the towns of Maria Aurora, Dipaculao, and Dilasag.

Dr. Juan Angara y Calderon is married to Juana Javier of Marikina, Rizal, the latter, until her retirement from the government service, was a Nurse in the Aurora Memorial Hospital. They are blessed with ten offsprings all of whom are successful professionals. They are Leticia, (BSE), Bachelor of Science in Social Work, Director, Region III, DSSD; Godofredo, (AB), Chief, Property Division, Department of Engineering, Quezon City; Socorro, (BSC), City Librarian, Manila; Lydia (BSE), Cashier, DSSD, now residing in the United States; Alicia, (MD), Physician; Edgardo, (LLB-LLM), Corporate Lawyer and 1971 CONCON Delegate; Arthur, (DDM), private practitioner; Bella, (LLB), private practitioner; Thelma, (BSN), private practitioner; and Joselito (ASC), businessman. The couple was awarded a Certificate of Recognition as Parents of the Year 1972 by the Parent Teachers League of Baler and the Schools Division of Quezon I.

Greetings

I am sending my warmest and sincerest regards to all beloved townmates and to those who are actively overseeing and prosecuting the programs and activities of the festivities.

I would like to share with you the joy of celebrating the 100th birth anniversary of our honored President MANUEL LUIS QUEZON who so loved Baler as well as our country — the Philippines.

President Quezon addressing the House of Representatives on June 2, 1942. He said that death, ruin and destruction had not daunted the spirit of the Filipinos.

MANUEL LUIS QUEZON

(1878 – 1944)

On August 19, 1878, the village of Baler, a little town on the eastern coast of Luzon, was peaceful — but not quiet. Church bells were ringing, for it was the town fiesta, an annual celebration in honor of San Luis de Tolosa, a bishop of the Catholic church. At seven o'clock that morning, as the bells were pealing their glad songs, a baby boy was born.

Lucio Quezon, the father of the child, was from Peñafrancia in the southern district of Manila, and of a Spanish father and a Filipino mother. After terminating his service as a sergeant in the Spanish army stationed in various parts of the country, he decided to try his luck anew which prompted him to emigrate to Baler,, where he met and married Maria Dolores Molina, a Spanish mestiza. Both of them were school teachers in the only local school in Baler.

The newly born child was baptized at the local church baptistry and was registered MANUEL LUIS QUEZON. His first teacher was his mother from whom he learned to read and write Spanish, arithmetic, spelling and catechism or the fundamentals of the Roman Catholic faith. His mother was a very devout woman, had planned eventually to steer the young Manuel Luis into the priesthood.

At seven, the young Quezon started his formal schooling at the convent adjoining the stone church with Fray Teodoro Fernandez, the Franciscan parish priest. The boy stayed with this friar for three years where he was taught history, goegraphy, religion and Latin.

Two years later, Father Fernandez was transferred to the congregation's main convent in Intramuros, Manila. His young convent or mess boy Manuel went him and was given quarters at the friar's compound in the Walled City while studying at the nearby Colegio de San Juan de Letran, a preparatory boys's school operated by the Dominican missionaries. A year later, he started to live with an aunt in Paco, as the good father was again transferred to the provinces. Later, since it was too far to walk four times a day to and from school for an eleven-year old boy, Don Lucio decided to place Manuel Luis as a boarder in the school where he was confirmed at the age of fourteen with a certain Dr. Rafael Bertol, his tutor in mathematics, as his godfather.

On Febraury 24, 1894, Manuel finished Bachiller en Artes at Colegio de San Juan de Letran with highest honors. He was then sixteen. A few years later he obtained a certificate as a Surveyor.

After spending a short vacation at Baler, and after the death of his mother, he decided to enrol at the University of Santo Tomas. He worked as a capista or tutor to backward students in return for free tuition and board and lodging. This was made possible due to the assistance granted by Fray Serapio Tamayo, his former professor in Letran who was in-charge of the interns at the university.

During his stay at the university, Quezon made many friends among his classmates and in the grades ahead of him like Vicente Madrigal of Bicol, Juan Sumulong of Antipolo, Vicente Singson Encarnacion of Ilocos Sur, Emilio Jacinto and Flaviano Yengko. Jacinto and Yengko were already members of the Katipunan, the former, writing in Bonifacio's propaganda sheet, Kalayaan. The young Quezon also became friend to Sergio Osmeña, a mestizo Sangley from Cebu, who later became his greatest political rival.

During his first year in UST, he studied under the influence of two outstanding professors, Fray Farpon, a physics and chemistry teacher, and Fray Valentin Marin, who taught Spanish literature. Farpon was a true scientist while Marin was a scholar well-versed not only in literature, but also possessed of liberal ideas that made him to become a shining exception in that period of religious and political bigotry.

There was a time when the young Quezon, thinking of the prophecy of his mother that he was predestined to be a priest and that we would serve God by his becoming a priest, enrolled in a course in dogmatic theology so as to find out where his true vocation was. But there, he met Fray Vaquero, one of his former teachers in Letran, who, after recalling the fiery temper and mischiefs of the young boy while at Letran, burst into laughter, a situation which forced Manuel to drop the course.

As a vigorous and handsome young man, who would always enjoy dancing the kumparsita and enjoy eating his favorite dish pork-chicken adobo, the young Quezon usually proved irresistible to many a young lady in the city and in the provinces. But this never hindered his studies. His stay at the university progressed satisfactorily. For example, in his preparatory law, he won a first prize for the course on the critical history of Spain.

In September 1896, however, all classes in Manila were suspended since the revolution had started due to the discovery by the Spanish authorities of Bonifacio's secret society — the Katipunan.

As Manila was deemed severe by the Spanish authorities and classes were re-opened in June of the following year, Quezon continued his studies at UST as a sophomore law student. However, chaos prevailed in the country with the conclusions of the Pact of Biak-na-Bato. And on August 13, 1898, Quezon witnessed the fall of Manila. Hence, all schools were closed, a reason which prompted him to proceed to Baler, only to discover that his father and his younger brother Pedro had been cruelly murdered by bandits disguising as revolutionary soldiers. That time the Spanish garrison was under siege after having taken refuge in the stone church of Baler, the place where the last flag of Spain remained to fly, when the rest of the country had fallen. Baler finally fall in May 1899.

Right at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, Quezon decided at once that "his duty lay in fighting for the freedom of his country," and presented himself to Colonel Villacorta in Pantabangan, a small town west from Baler, across the Sierra Madre. He was commissioned as second lieutenant. Lt. Quezon became instrumental in pacifying the bandits' unrests in Cabanatuan and other parts of Central Luzon. This prompted his superiors to promote him to the rank of first lieutenant. He continued to fight in the provinces in Central Luzon until he was promoted to the rank of captain. He joined the forces of General Aguinaldo stationed in Tarlac. Few months later, he was ordered to take command of the Baguio garrison, several miles further to Trinidad. Upon his return to Tarlac, he requested General Aguinaldo to send him to the front lines. So he found himself with General Mascardo in Porac, a little town in Pampanga, then with Colonel Leysan in San Fernando. When Mascardo was promoted to succeed the late General Luna as commander of all the forces in Central Luzon, he took Leysan as his chief of staff, who made Quezon as his staff assistant, and fought in the towns of Pampanga, Tarlac and Bataan, Quezon continued to join the forces as captain.

Within a few days after Aguinaldo's capture in Palanan, Isabela, on March 23, 1901, General Mascardo called for Quezon and promoted him to the rank of major. Although he was later advised by the general to surrender because of his poor health, he found ways to go to Manila to verify Aguinaldo's capture. Upon seeing his Commander-in-Chief, a prisoner, he was stunned and was only able to whisper "tapos na ang lahat" (the cause is lost). That was his first visit to the palace, now knowing that 34 years later, he will reside there as the first president of the Commonwealth of the Philippines and leader of his People. He had his first contact with the American regime at a large old building in Intramuros, where Filipino officers were detained including General Ananias Diokno of Batangas, and Servillano Aquino of Tarlac, and Apolinario Mabini. Quezon, was confined in this headquarters for two months, then he was taken to a very crowded prison for four months until he was finally released with the help of a former professor and church's lawyer. He then became more anti-American than ever and vowed that he would never be arrested again. He later worked as an overseer of the friar estates in Bataan; then as a clerk at the Monte de Piedad in Manila, staying with Santiago Antonio's family in Pandacan.

In the early part of 1903, Quezon passed the bar examinations and on April 16, he took his oath as licensed lawyer. Shortly after, he found himself employed with Francisco "Paco" Ortigas, Sr., a well-known barrister whom the young Quezon became acquainted with while at Letran. In 1903, he decided to work as a private practitioner. His fame as a young and brilliant lawyer spread far and wide in the provinces. He had gained friendship with Governor Paras of Tayabas. He was often invited by Col. and Mrs. Bandholtz in their house in Lucena. Shortly, Attorney Quezon became the fiscal of Mindoro when Civil Governor William H. Taft signed his appointment. Six months later, Fiscal Quezon was promoted to a higher position in Tayabas due to his vigor and legal ability. He served as the register of deeds in addition. Although he was considered the best provincial fiscal in the service; he decided to resign and continue his private law practice.

In 1905, Quezon ran for governorship in Tayabas and won. In the words of Governor General Williams Cameron Forbes, "... Governor Manuel Quezon gave good service as governor of the province of Tayabas. He also assumed the initiative and used his official position beyond the legal powers of a provincial governor in requiring citizens to improve their own property by planting great areas of coconut and hemp — an extra legal performance which resulted in much greater prosperity in that region."

In July 1907, Quezon resigned from the governorship and filed his candidacy for a seat in the First Philippine Assembly, and won without campaigning much. In the first Philippine Assembly, Sergio Osmeña became the Speaker, while Quezon, the majority floor-leader. Quezon also handled the committee on appropriations.

When Congress was planning to introduce free trade relations with the Philippines in the Payne-Aldrich and Philippine Tariff Acts of 1909, Quezon was one of those who strongly opposed since these acts would greatly delay the granting of Philippine Independence, but in vain. Few years later, Quezon was sent to the International Congress of Navigation held in Petersburg, Russia with two secretaries, F. Theo Rogers and Teodoro N. Kalaw.

At the age of 31, Quezon was appointed Resident Commissioner and arrived in Washington, D.C. in 1909. He remained to be one of the two resident commissioners to the United States for about 8 years, which position he held until January 11, 1917. During this period two significant political concessions were granted to the Philippines: the granting of a Filipino majority in the Philippine Commission in 1913, and the surrender of all legislative rights to Filipinos with the establishment of the Philippine Senate in 1916.

On August 29, 1916, President Wilson signed the Jones Law, which led the Philippine to enter into a new era — one of greater, but still limited autonomy, giving a promise of independence. And Manuel L. Quezon was the man responsible for this change.

At the age of 38, Quezon became the president of the Senate.

In 1919, Manuel married Aurora Aragon Y Molina, while in Hongkong on their way to the United States. Aurora, a very beautiful girl, the youngest of the eight children of Pedro Aragon and Zenaida Molina, was also from Baler. Later, they lived in the United States as a newly married couple.

While representing his country in various independence missions, Quezon fought very hard, believing that he was separating himself from his party in order to effect a new government for the Filipinos. Hence, he said, "My loyalty to my party ends where my loyalty to my people begins."

In 1926, Quezon organized the Supreme National Council for the purpose of directing Philippine policies concerning the campaign for independence, and all matters affecting the relationship between US and the Philippines, and the administration of the best interests of the country in general. In appealing for independence, Quezon expressed in various occasions in the US Congress the urgency for giving Filipinos a chance to rule, thus he said "... I would prefer a government run like hell by the Filipinos to one run like heaven by Americans. ..."

After a long political battle during the signing of the Hare-Hawes-Cutting Law, at last, the Filipino leaders succeeded in convincing their co-leaders that the country was not well prepared for the immediate granting of independence. In his efforts to convince his oppositionists, Quezon acclaimed that the people must "... never question a man's patriotism by the blood that runs in his veins, or by the nationality of his ancestors; we should judge a man by what he is, rather than from where his forefathers came..." Quezon met a widespread undercurrent of hostility in his efforts to serving the people to his side, opposing the immediate granting of independence.

At last, the granting of Philippine independence came into a reality with the passage of the Tydings-McDuffie Law. A transition period, however, had to be experienced. And so, the Commonwealth Government had to be established in order to better prepare the Filipinos for operating their own government. And after an almost a year of writing, deliberations and debate, the Constitution was finally approved on February 8, 1935.

In an election held in September 1935, Quezon led over his opponents, Emilio Aguinaldo and Gregorio Aglipay by an overwhelming majority. Sergio Osmeña became his vice president. On November 15, Pres. Roosevelt signed a proclamation announcing the succession of the Commonwealth government to the then existing Philippine government. It was on that same day when Pres. Quezon and vice Pres. Osmeña were inducted into office before Chief Justice Ramon Avanceña. The commonwealth of the Philippines was also inaugurated amidst colorful ceremonies held at the Legislative Building, with high government dignitaries attending.

In his administration, Pres. Quezon championed the cause of the poor. He once said that "justice shall be done to the poor and the humble in his country as long as I am the President. I am determined to fight for the rights of everybody, rich and poor alike, but more particularly for those who have no money with which to pay handsomely expensive lawyers. And let it be known that I shall use the powers of my office to win this fight." Thus, social justice became one of the thrusts of his administration. This, he announced even before he became the president in his eight guideposts in running the Commonwealth government that "the poor and the weak should not be oppressed and the fundamental government policy should not make the poor poorer and the rich richer, but to make the poor rich and to provide relief for the needy." He also initiated the enrichment of a common language which was rooted from the Tagalog and which would eventually become the national language.

In November 1941, in accordance with the amended Constitution, the Philippine electorate re-elected Quezon and Osmeña to their positions.

At the outbreak of the Second World War on December 8, 1941, Quezon, although debilitated by his illness, went around to visit the bombed areas and raise the morale of its inhabitants. On December 24, he held his last cabinet meeting in Marikina where they decided to leave in order to preserve the government in anticipation of Mac Arthur's decision to declare Manila an open city to save it from further destruction. The president and majority of his cabinet members left Laurel and Vargas to deal with the Japanese and protect the inhabitants from them. The cabinet had to seek refuge for two months at Malinta Tunnel in Corrigedor where the government was preserved and protected amidst continuous attack.

President Quezon was a member of the Pacific War Council formed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. He was the first Filipino who signed the manifesto of the United Nations on June 14, 1942.

On December 30, Pres. Quezon took his second oath before Chief Justice Abad Santos. From Corregidor Island, Pres. Quezon was flown to Bachelor Field, a few miles from Port Darwin, aboard the bomber, without thinking that this would be the last time to see his native land.

On April 20, 1942 (ten days after the fall of Bataan), Quezon and his family moved to San Francisco aboard the s.s. President Coolidge. His wartime cabinet continued to function and the Commonwealth Government was held in exile and while Manila remained in hands of the Japanese for more than three years, with Laurel being proclaimed the president of the Republic.

On July 20, Quezon appointed a new staff to take over the rebuilding of a war-torn Philippines, including special studies to survey the economic conditions in preparation for its rehabilitation.

Even on his death bed, El Presidente Quezon (as he was called) thought of and worked for his people. His long years of achievements and struggle stressed the need for the granting of Philippine Independence by the Americans.

After long years of service to his country, Pres. Quezon died by the side of his wife Doña Aurora, and children Maria Aurora (Baby), Maria Zenaida (Nini— and Manuel, Jr. (Nonong). He died at Saranac Lake without seeing his country being granted independence by the United States. His body was deposited at Arlington Cemetery, the national cemetery for all American heroes. His body was brought to the Philippine aboard U.S.S. Princeton on July 27, 1946 and was interred at the Manila North Cemetery.

So, Manuel Luis Quezon, the first president of the Commonwealth of the Philippines is dead — the president, who came from the remote village of Baler, and who got popularity due to his plight for the poor and due to his political leadership and whose eloquent voice echoed at the Philippine Legislature and eventually at the U.S. Congress. The idol of many has gone, leaving the famous Code of Citizenship and Ethics.

Manuel Luis Quezon, the promoter of social justice, the father of the Philippine national language, and the paladin of Philippine freedom has gone. But his memory and vision for an independent country have and will always remain in the heart and mind of every Filipino. Pres. Manuel Luis Quezon will never be forgotten in the history of the Filipino people.

Our salute to him — President Manuel Luis Quezon — on the occasion of his 100th birth anniversary on August 19, 1978.
